This committee will be responsible for issues such as rule infringement and conflict resolution, between member villages and with other villages who are not members (e.g. along the Tizu river, several villages fish including those that are not members of the joint CCA network.

<Highlight 4>: Interesting sightings

A relatively rare Bhutan Glory butterfly was sighted on 21 Oct, 2016 on the road between the Kivikhu and Vishepu villages. Here is a description of the butterfly from the web

Bhutanitis lidderdalii, the Bhutan glory, is a species of swallowtail butterfly (family Papilionidae), which is found in Bhutan, parts of north eastern India and of Southeast Asia. A spectacular insect much sought after by collectors, it is listed under CITES Appendix II, but not in the Red Book of the IUCN, the status of the butterfly has been recorded as rare by some authorities and "insufficiently known" in the IUCN Red Data Book on swallowtails.
